The Government Rejects the Proposition of the New York Bankers to Supply the Treasury with Gold-Bonds Will Not Be Issued Now Except as a Last Resort WASHINGTON, April 25.-The net gold in the Treasury this morning over and above the $100,000,000 gold reserve is $900,000. This sounts for the gold taken from the New York Sub-Treasury for export to-day; also for the gold which has been offered and accepted from Boston bankers. It does not, however, include the gold which has been offered to the Government from San Francisco and Rosnoke, These amounts will appear in the Treasury figures when the actual exchange is made. At the Cabinet meeting this afternoon Secretarr Carlisle brought up the proposition of the New York bankers to supply, under cerwith gold. It was thoroughly discussed and finally rejected. What this proposition was is not known here, as Secretary Carlisle de-elined to make its terms public. It was not, however, considered advantageous to the Government. This was the culmination of several propositions submitted, one of which was declined last Saturday. A counterproposition was then made by the bankers to the Secretary of the Treasury, which was received last Monday. This was also rejected. and in turn the Secretary submitted a propocept. All negotiations, therefore, between the Treasury Department and the New York bank ers are off, at least for the present, and Secrecontinue to replete the Treasury gold. The Administration does not desire to issue bonds, and will not do so except as a last resort. That time, in their opinion, has not yet arrived, and, if their efforts to obtain gold are successful.

will not soon be reached. Representative Wise of Virginia called on the President to-day and presented a petition signed by bankers and business men of Richmond asking the President to issue bonds to relieve the financial situation. The President received the petition, but gave no indication of what his intention will be in the direction of following the auggestions made therein.

A fact not generally known in connection with the greenback gold reserve is brought out by Representative O. M. Hall of the Third

"As a matter of fact." says Mr. Hall, "there is not an actual $100,000,000 reserve fund in the Treasury, but only about $54,000,000. The Redemption law of 1875 authorized the sale of bonds for the purpose of redeeming the greenbacks. Under that law the Government sold $96,000.000 of bonds. It has used in round numbers $42,000,000 of this fund in redeeming greenbacks, leaving in the Treasury $54.000,000 of the proceeds of the sale of these bonds, which by law is specifically set aside for the purpose of redeeming green-

"It seems to me that the Government has the unquestioned right to use all of the $40. 000,000, in round numbers, surplus over the redemption fund set aside for the bonds for the purpose of redeeming the Treasury notes issued for the purchase of silver, but I do no see how the $54,000,000 can be applied to that The Redemption act of 1875 still leaves with the Secretary of the Treasury the power to issue bonds for the purpose of redeeming the greenbacks, but neither that law nor any other of which I am cognizant gives him any authority to issue bonds for the purpose of redeeming the Treasury notes.

I think this is the meaning of Mr. Cleve land's and Mr. Carlisle's messages, and this is their position as I gather from their state-ments. It is not likely that this reserve will be reduced to the $54,000,000 before the next meeting of Congress, though I do not think there is any need of an extra session on this point. While I personally favor the repeal of there is any need of an extra session on this point. While I personally favor the repeal of the Sherman Silver act. I do not believe that Congress in its present mood will repeal it."

Representative Williams of Illinois, who was one of the leading free silver men on the Coinage Committee in the last Congress, was asked to-day how the next House will stand on the proposition to repeal the Sherman act. He replied that in view of the number of new members in the next House, and the increased number of Republicans, it is difficult to predict what the vote will be. He says the calling of an extra session will not mean that the advocates of free silver are ready to surrender all they have been fighting for so long without a struggle. The friends of silver are just as earnest and sincers in their belief now as they were last winter, he says, and it will require stronger proofs than are now advanced to show that the present financial difficulty is due to the monthly purchase of silver. Suppose, said he, that the silver purchase should be stopped and the expacted relief be not forthcoming. The Democratic party would then be placed in a very awkward attitude before the world.

Representative Traces, who was a member of the same committee, says there is no doubt in his mind that a bill to repeal the Sherman act can be passed the House.

When Congress meets many of the men who are now supposed to be advocates of free silver will probably be induced to vote for the repeal. He intimated that a judicious distribution of the Federal patronage by the Administration may bring about the desired result. With the Senate there is some doubt. It is understood that the silver men have gained several votes, and under the existing rules of that body there is no certainty what the fate of the repeal bill would be.

wagon to the Sub-Treasury in the Post Office building, and greenbacks were taken in exchange.

OUR SILVER BILLS IN CANADA. Toronto Banks Will Take Them Only at a Discount of One Per Cent.

TORONTO, April 25.-Toronto banks to-day decided to accept American silver bills only at discount of one per cent., and one bank here is charging five per cent. At the Harbor Master's office these bills are taken only subject ters office these bills are taken only subject to a discount of five per cent. The Toronto bankers, whose example will likely be followed throughout Canada, explaining their action in the matter, say they wish to discourage the circulation of American sliver currency in Canada, as they consider the business interests in the Dominion would suffer severely if the country should become flooded with American currency.

THEODORE A. HAVEMEYER, THIRD. A Caudie Party in Honor of the Very Young Mun's Christening.

The present week will be be one of the most Interesting and eventful in the history of the meyer, a daughter of Mr. Theodore A. Havemeyer, will be married to Mr. Perry Tiffany, a nephew of the late Mrs. August Belmont, and yesterday afternoon the son born to Mr. and Mrs. Carley F. Havemayer several months ago. was baptized in the home of its parents, 21 West Seventeenth street. The baptism was to have taken place some months ago, but was postponed on account of the then delicate condition of the infant's health, which, however, has improved, until now the youngster is as rotund, bouncing, and rosy as any baby in

Mr. and Mrs. Carley F. Havemeyer, in honor of so important a happening as the christening of their first born, gave a caudle party, to which they asked their immediate relatives which they asked their immediate relatives and a very small number of their most intimate friends. It was an entirely informal affair, quiet and elegant, and was over in less than one hour. The guests assembled in the drawing room between 3 and 4 o'clock, and until the latest arrival of the havemeyer family was carried into the room in the arms of its nurse they occupied themselves with congratulating the parents and the grandparents. The baptismal ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Henry Yates Satterlee, the rector of Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church, who, with the Rev. Br. K. Freeman of St. Mark's Church of Islip officiated at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Havemeyer, the parents of the child. The Rev. Mr. Freeman was not presentant the christening yesterday. Standing in the circle about the elegyman, the nurse with the baby in her arms, the godmother, Miss Clara Moss, sister of Mrs. Havemeyer, and the godfather, Mr. Theodore A. Havemeyer, Jr., were the happy parents and the grandparents, all of whom beamed with pride and satisfaction. Mrs. Havemeyer, the mother, looked handsomer than ever in a costume of black silk and Eminence purple chiffon combined. The child was named after its paternal grandfather, and will be known as Theodore A. Havermeyer, Third. No sound but the pleasantest was heard from the child until the cold water was applied to the top of the head, when a lusty bawl went forth. and a very small number of their most intiantest was heard from the child until the cold water was applied to the top of the head, when a lusty bawl went forth.

After the ceremony a bowl of spicy caudle was brought in and served to the guests, who also carried away with them as souvenirs of the occasion handsome boxes covered with pink and white satin and filled with bonbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Huvemeyer's wedding was one of the most brilliant of the autumn season of 1800. It was celebrated at "The Ramble." the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Courtlandt D. Moss at Isip, L. I. Mrs. Havemeyer was Miss Camilla Woodward Moss, and one of the most beautiful women in New York society.

TROUBLES OF A COAL AND IRON CO. The Court Petitioned for a Receiver for the Lehigh Valley.

CHICAGO, April 25.-James D. Hurd this morning filed a bill in the United States Cir-cuit Court asking for an accountant and receiver for the Lehigh Valley Coal and Iron Company. Similar bills have been filed in St. Paul, Milwaukee, Duluth, West Superior, and Madison, Wis., in all of which cities the company has extensive interests. The assets of the company are fixed at $1,750,000, and its liabilities at $1,250,000. On a basis of these figures it is said that the company is not insolvent. olvent.

DROWNED IN HER BATHTUB.

SUICIDE OF MRS. CHARLES E. HODGES IN A BROOKLYN FLAT.

She Stopped All the Crevices in Her Room Turned On the Gus, and Then Sat Down in the Tab and Turned On the Water. Mrs. Alice Hodges, aged 33 years, the wife of Charles E. Hodges, the manager of George Barnard & Co.'s sporting goods store in Bond o'clock after kissing his wife and daughter good-by, and the latter started from home an hour or so later, intending to call on a young friend on her way to school. Mrs. Hodges was then left alone in her apartments, her servant having gone away a few days ago.

Mr. Hodges took his departure about 7

A few minutes after 8 o'clock Ellen Ryan, a servant on the fifth floor, noticed Mrs. Hodges in the hallway on the fourth floor. and so far as is known at present this is the last time she was seen alive. At a little before 3 o'clock in the afternoon one of the occupants of the third floor noticed water dripping through the ceiling overhead, and hurrying to the haliway notified Joseph Hessford, the bell boy.

The latter ran up stairs, and finding all the doors in the Hodges's apartments locked, summoned Edson E. Janning, the engineer, from the basement. Engineer Janning forced open a door of the Hodges's apartments and hurried to the bathroom. He found the door locked and burst it ojen.

Her mother, sine said, kissed her as usual when she was going away, and told her to come home from school without stopping on the way.

Mr. Hodges arrived at his home from New York about 4 o'clock on an urgent summons, and was completely overcome when he learned of his wie's suicide. Later, when he had partly regained his composure, he said:

"I am utterly at a loss to account for this dreadful occurrence. With the exception of an ailment to which many women are subject, my wife enjoyed fair health an! was a woman of cheerful temper and disposition. She had no domestic trouble of any kind, and our ten years of married life has been uniformly pleasant.

"This morning my wife was in remarkably good spirits, and at the breakinst table I told her about my arrangements to take her and our little girl to see the naval parade, and had spoken of our plans to visit Chicago at the opening of the Fair. She must have become suddenly deranged from some cause which is completely beyond my comprehension."

Dr. Smith had left Mr. Booth supposedly for the night about 11:30 o'clock on Monday night, but returned about 11:30 yesterday morning. Dr. Fremont Smith remained in the Players' Club all night. Dr. Smith saw Mr. Booth for the second time yesterday about 3 o'clock in the atternoon and found him little changed. There is very little that the Doctor can do for Mr. Booth, the main desire being to keep him in an easy, restful condition, and to prevent any possible kidney trouble or a second hemorrhage. No opiates are given to him, it is said. His principal nouris-huent is milk, about seven ounces of which he takes three times a day.

WHIPPED HER BROTHER-IN-LAW. The Troubles of the McKenzle Familie

Norwood, Mass., April 25,-Norwood has another horsewhipping episode somewhat similar to the one which caused so much excitement a few months ago. whipping is the wife of one of the active members of the Orthodox Church, while the victim of her assault, her husband's brother, is an equally prominent and active member of the Universalist Church.

Charles McKenzie's first wife died a few years ago, and in due time he married again. This marriage was distasted to his brother, Robert, and to Robert's wife, and also to his own children. They all, it is said, have joined issues and refuse to retransfer certain real estate to the present Mrs. Charles McKenzie, as they have been repeatedly requested to do. This condition of affairs has naturally bred a great deal of feeling, and on Sunday afternoon last Robert was met in a field by Mrs. Charles McKenzie, who, without ceremony, proceeded to helabor him over the head and shoulders with a horsewhin. He says that he allowed himself to be struck once or twice, when he took hold of her arms and prevented her from further assaulting him. The woman, however, tells a story somewhat different. She does not deny the horsewhipping, but says that when Robert came upon the property she told him he was a treepasser and ordered Mm off, that he told her that the property she told him he was a treepasser and ordered Mm off, that he told her that the property belonged to him, and at the same time struck her and knocked her down. She claims that she immediately got up and administered the horsewhipping. She has caused Robert's arrest, and the friends of each are very much excited.

"A year ago," Mr. Ashley said, "the road had only a local business, but we saw that it could be developed into a through line and set about at once to equip it for that business. We bought ferryboats that would carry whole trains without breaking bulk, and established by means of them, in connection with the Green Bay, Winona and St. Iraul in the West and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western in the Fast, a through line to New York city. It was necessary to have money, and I herrowed some on my stock and my father's. I was called on on Monday to take up these loans which were with three houses, and could not raise the money. There are other loans for which securities belonging to the company have been hypothecated, but they have not been called. I have shown my faith in the property by putting into it every dollar I had. I have been too ambitious; that has been my fault."

Mr. Ashley said that the loan to the company was secured by bonds, and that there might be a few bonds among the collaterals for his individual loans, but that they had only been nurchased to "sustain the market." It is understood that the privileges that Mr. Ashley has written in his effort to "sustain the market" contributed in no small degree to his embarrasament.

FOR EARTH TO EARTH BURIAL. The Annual Meeting of the Burial Reform

The fourth annual meeting of the Burial Reform Association was held last night at Grace Hall, East Fourteenth street. Bishop Grace Hall, East Fourteenth street. Bishop Potter, the President of the association, said that it was the object of the association to promote inexpensive funerals for rich and poor alike, to encourage burials in perishable coffins, and to prohibit the use of vaults and comented graves, and to discourage the display of flowers and the use of crape, especially of crape vells.

He believes that in view of the possible invasion of pestilence next summer, the principles of the association should be brought to the attention of the public. All the other speakers last evening favored earth to earth burial.

Burned His Live Stock and Killed Himself. ROCKPORD, Ill., April 25.-Chris Nieman, living on the farm of M. Dunn, in Laona, last night on the farm of M. Dunn, in Laona, last night put all his horses and cattle into the barn and all the valuables about the house and then set the barn on fire. Everything was destroyed, including the wagons buggles, thirty head of cattle, and six horses. He then went to the house, locked himself in, and killed himself with a shetgun. His brother committed suicides in the same manner last summer. Family trouble is said to have led to the act. His family were away from home.

FACE ALMOST RAW WHY GANNON WAS NOT APPOINTED.

Opposition that Prevented Mr. Harrity from Making Him Minister to Chill. Members of the Clan-na-Gael Society, not only of this city but all over the country, are disappointed because President Cleveland did not appoint M. V. Gannon of Omaha, Minister to Chill. Mr. Gannon is known as Mount Vesuvius Gannon. He is President of the Irish National League, of which Patrick Egan > pointed him Minister to Chili. During the last campaign Chairman William Frank Harrity of the National Democratic Committee, through his brother-in-law. Wil-liam Hare of Philadelphia, and other Irishmen here in New York, organized an Irish annex to the Democratic National Headquar ters. Mount Vesuvius Gannon was one of the paid orators of this annex. Mr. Harrity believed that Thomas Henry Carter of the Republican National Committee was cap turing all the Irish, and it was to offset Mr.

was President when President Harrison apturing all the Irish, and it was to offset Mr. Carter that the Irish annex was established. All of Mr. Gannon's friends were in the move, and immediately after election day Gannon was boomed for Minister to Chili. He had the support of a wing of the Chan-un-Gael Society, i.u., more than all else, he had the hearty support of Chairman Harrity. It came out yesterilay that Mr. Harrity was so influential with Fresident Cleveland that the President was about to send Gannon's name to the Senate, when John Devoy of Chicago, J. P. Ryan, and Major John Byrne of this city and Gen. Patrick A. Collins of Boston heard of it and opposed the appointment.

Telegrams protesting against Gannon were sent by the basketful to Mr. Cleveland. It was asserted that the Irish National League existed only on paper and that it was used only for political preference. The protests also spoke of Gannon's record in Davenport, Ia. and the causes which had leid him to move to Omaha, President Cleveland was astounded. He had relied upon the representations of Chairman Harrity. The President at once sent for Mr. Harrity and laid before him the protests against Gannon's appointment. The President decided to hold it over and await further developments. When Gen. Collins arrived in Washington to receive his instructions as Consul-General to London he submitted to President Cleveland letters from Gannon's relatives protesting against the appointment. This was the last straw. Notwithstanding Mr. Harrity's protest, the President threw out Gannon and sent in the name of James D. Porter of Tennessee.

SAVED IN THE NICK OF TIME. A Schooner Rescues a Ship's Crew Just as Their Vessel Was Sloking.

San Francisco, April 25.-Fifteen men, the Captain and crew of the American ship Alaska. were brought into port to-day by the schooper Melancthon, having been picked up 100 miles off the coast after the abandonment of their leaking vessel. Not a life was lost, although at the very moment of rescue one of the boats in which the castaways were heading for land was smashed against the schooner's side, and the occupants had to be snatched, one by one, from a raging sea.

The Alaska was a wooden ship, built

The Alaska was a wooden ship, built in Maine fifteen or twenty years ago. For many years she has been owned by Capt. Samuel Blair of this city, and has been in the coast coal trade, On April 11 she left Whatcom, Washi, in command of Capt. Brennan, with a load of coal for San Francisco. Shortly after the tug dropped her. Off Cape Finitery the Alaska sprang a leak. The pumps were manned, but the water kept gaining, and soon it came pouring into the hold at the rate of three inches an hour.

The wind was blowing from the southwest and the ship labored heavily in the sea. Every wave swept her decks. At 1 o'clock on Saturday there were two feet of water in the hold. Before noon there was five feet, and hy 3 o'clock in the afternoon it had increased to nine feet. Shortly after noon the Melancthon have in sight and the flag with the stars down was run out. At 6 o'clock that night it was found necessary to abandon the ship. There was twelve feet of water in the hold and the Alaska was sinking. The Captain set fire to the sinking ship.

By superhuman efforts the Alaska's crew

Alaska was sinking. The Captain set are to the sinking ship.
By superhuman efforts the Alaska's crew reached the Melanethon. The first beat was lesisted aboard safely, but the second beat, in charge of Capt. Brennan, was not so fortunate. The big waves sent the beat smashing into the schooner's side and stove her in. The men had to jump for their lives.

HAD A HOUSE ALL TO THEMSELVES. Three Young Runaways Captured After Two Days' Absence, Three runaway boys, who have been missing were discovered yesterday in a vacant house at 838 East 103d street. Persons living in that neighborhood saw evidences that some one was occupying the house and reported to a policeman. He summoned help and, accompanied by a fast grow-ing crowd, they surrounded the house. On en-tering the police discovered three frightened tering the points and the small boys.

They are George Corell, aged 14, of 503 East 101st street: Frederick Hergert, 11, of 72st East 185th street, and Frank Hamilton, 14, of Forest avenue and 185th street. Hergert was sent home and the others were turned over to sent home and the others were turned over to the Gerry society.

The boys did not seem to have left home with any definite idea except to have a good time. Their surroundings indicated that they had been doing this with a small stock of what most folks find necessary for material com-fort. They had no beds, and had been living mostly on breal. What food they had had, they admitted, they had stolen from neigh-boring grocers.

EXPERTS PLAY CHESS.

Lasker Wins Another Victory Over She-walter-The Walbrodt Match. Кокомо, Ind., April 25.-Play in the chees match was continued yesterday, Showalter having recovered from his indisposition. For the third time in this match Lasker started P-Q 4, but afterward turned the game into a Queen's Gambit. The first fifteen moves were Queen's Gambit. The first fifteen moves were played on both sides in accordance with the recognized inetics in this well-trodden opening, but one move later Showalter effected a blundering exchange of knights which enabled Lasker to win a pawn and checking. It was then clear that victory would perch on the banner of the German, although Showalter kept up the fight for a dozen moves longer, when he lost a piece in the bargain.

The American resigned after four hours of pluy, whereof Lasker consumed but forty minutes. The present acore of the match, including the games played at Logansport, is: Lasker, 5; Showalter, 2; drawn, 1. The score of yesterday's game is appended:

Kokomo. Ind., April 25.—Lasker walked away with an uncarned game to-day in the chess match with Showalter, the result of an error on the part of the Kentuckian, which is only accounted for, by his friends, by the fact that he is suffering with the grip and cannot concentrate his mind on the game.

The game opened most prilliantly, and worried the German so that some of his moves consumed as much as thirty minutes.

The third game in the match between Walbrodt and Delmar, which was played at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday evening, was accompanied by a most curious incident, such as happens rarely when two masters are sitting at the chess table. The position of king and queen on Walbrodt's side of the board were reversed, but several moves had been exchanged before the error was discovered. Delmar insisted upon the game progressing from where it stood. As the match is played under the rules laid down in Staunton's Chess Companion, and this prescribes that if more than four moves have been made before a displacement of pleces has been discovered the actual position remains standing, the referse, L. Goldmark, had to sustain Delmar's claim. Walbrodt forfeited thus the right of castling. Delmar's claim. Walbrodt forfeited thus the right of casting.

The game itself, intended to be a French defence, only profited by the misplacement of white's pieces, as new interest was added to an otherwise dull opening.

The contest after the first twenty-four moves proved to be most exciting game on record: in fact, the style in which Walbrodt conducted the defence was of the highest possible order. Walbrodt scored a brilliant game after fifty-five moves. Here follows the game:

And when Pastler brought suit for divorce last July his wife made no defence.

Last Saturday Pastler married a woman who is known only as Lena. Since then his first wife has been making things unpleasant for him, and yesterday he received a letter from her demanding $300.

About 5 o'clock in the afternoon the newly married wife, while going up stairs to the living rooms over the resturant, heard a pistol shot, and on entering the rooms found her husband lying dead on the floor. He had left the following note explaining his act:

THE TIGER COMES TO TOWN.

Monarch of All He Surveyed in the Express Car on His Arrival.

The tiger which caused such a commotion in an express car between Columbus and Cleveland on Monday arrived in town at 6 A. M. yesterday. His companion, the lion, came too. W. A. Conklin, their owner, took the animals away four hours later. He says that when he reached the Grand Central station with his men the express car was, shunted on a side track with the tiger in full possession. The tiger was not only loose, but was particularly ferocious because of not having been fed for some time. He and his men had to go in the car armed with long three-pointed prods, with which they drove him into his box.

The tiger is of the royal Boggal angeles. in an express car between Columbus and bonned proofs, with which they drove him into his box.

The tiger is of the royal Bengal species. He measures ten leet from the tip of his nose to the end of his tail and weighs 700 pounds. The box which confined him is of 1%-inch planking, double sheathed, but was weak in the end. The lion is of the black mane species, and is the largest of his age in this country. Although but 18 months old, he weighs nearly 500 pounds. The animals were bought by Mr. tonklin for John H. Starin's zoological gardens at Gien Island. Express Agent H. B. Cozzins denies that the tiger was loose on as rival. rival.
